New England Aeronautics
Superior Flight Training

Completing your Introductory flight at New England Aeronautics is a great way for any individual to experience the sensations of flight. Under the supervision of an experienced flight instructor, each person will be allowed to manipulate the flight controls so as to learn how each control functions to safely maneuver the aircraft.

Introductory flights at New England Aeronautics consist of approximately one half hour of ground school and one hour of flight. Ground school helps the individual understand basic aerodynamics related to lift production as well as basic flight control function. This is the best way for anyone to determine if flight training is truly something an individual would like to pursue before making a commitment.

The cost of the introductory flight is $200. Cash, Check, Venmo or PayPal are all accepted. Credit card transactions are accepted, however a 4% fee will be added so as to satisfy the fee charged by the credit card company. Gift certificates are available upon request.
